SUPREME COURT HEARS FINAL ARGUMENTS IN OSP CONSTITUTIONALITY CASE, FIXES 29 JULY FOR JUDGMENT

Yesterday, Wednesday 10 June 2026, the Supreme Court heard oral arguments in Adamtey v. Attorney-General, the suit challenging the constitutionality of the Office of the Special Prosecutor (OSP). At the close of the hearing, the Court fixed Wednesday 29 July 2026 for the delivery of final judgment.

As the public would recall, the Court had earlier admitted all fourteen (14) of the underlisted civil society organizations to join the proceedings by way of an amicus brief. At yesterday's hearing, the CSOs were represented by Messrs Kizito Beyuo, Samson Lardy Anyenini, Clement Kojo Akapame and Oliver Barker-Vormawor.

It is our hope that the Court will uphold the positions canvassed by the CSOs and affirm the constitutionality of the OSP law. We also remind Ghanaians that the Office of the Special Prosecutor was established by an Act of Parliament passed with broad national consensus, and it remains one of the principal institutions on which Ghana's anti-corruption effort depends.

A further update to the public will be provided upon delivery of the judgment on 29 July 2026.
